WOMEN'S ISSUES

Simon Fraser University, Department of Womens' Studies and Northwest Community College will be co-hosting the following courses.

WOMEN, COMMUNITY & HEALTH

DATES: Tues., Oct. 12
TIME: 1:00 - 3:30 p.m.
PLACE: College Centre
FEE: FREE

Health is an issue of central concern for women. In Canada and in many aboriginal communities, women have been assigned the responsibility for the health of others in their families and communities. In addition, women form the majority of workers in both the paid and unpaid "health" services. Furthermore, women's own physical and mental health are important social and environmental concern. Beginning with our own experiences, in this workshop we will examine these issues, the implications that they have for women and consider how women can organize for safer and healthier communities. Pre-registration by Oct. 1 is essential.

WOMEN AND ANGER

DATES: Tues., Oct. 12
TIME: 7:00 - 9:30 p.m.
PLACE: College Centre
FEE: FREE

Women are taught "to be nice", "to be caring", "to be responsible". Women are not supposed to be angry. Beginning with our own experiences, in this workshop we will explore some of the many complex issues that are part of the social understanding of women and anger. We will examine historical perspectives and challenge many common myths, assumptions and stereotypes in relation to women and anger while considering factors such as gender, class, ethnicity, and age. We will conclude by generating creative ways to use anger for healthy social change. Pre-registration by Oct. 1 is essential.
