BCcampus library services

Welcome to the BCcampus Portal Library Services Gateway! This site has been designed to provide you, as an online learner, with access to key resources to help you complete your academic research assignments. Through the Library Services Gateway you can:

- email or chat with a library staff member to ask for assistance with your research topic/question
- search online indexes and databases to find information on the topic that is of interest
- search for a specific book, journal article, or newspaper article and find out if it is available to you online fulltext or in print at your home institution's library, and request it via interlibrary loan if it isn't accessible online or in print
- access research, writing, and citing guides to help you with various aspects of your assignments

You can also access a wide range of other services through your home institution's library, or through the institution that is teaching your course if it isn't your home institution. Use the links below to access individual library web sites, catalogues, and subject/research guides.

Search & Request

Search & Request

Start here if you know the title or author of the book or title of the journal you are looking for [e.g. The ethical brain by Michael S. Gazzaniga or Canadian Journal of Criminology]. Once you enter a title and click on continue, the library collection at your home institution will be searched and you'll be presented with the results. The results will include a link to the fulltext online version [if there is one!], a link to the call number for the print version [if there is one!], and an option to search other libraries and request the item [if there isn't any other option!]. The options for requesting an item from another library [this is called interlibrary loan!] will depend on the local policies at your home institution. If you can't request the item online, or have specific questions contact the library at your home institution.

Use the SFU Library Catalogue to find books, journals, reports, and other publications. The library catalogue is searchable by author, title, journal title, subject or keyword.

The KEYWORD options allow you to focus on specific topics by combining words from the title, author's name, subject headings and contents notes. Use keywords to find books, reports, or other publications in the SFU Library.
