SHOPPING FOR A GOOD STOVE

IN POST WAR CANADA (1945-1955)

JOY PARR

Farley Endowed Professor, Department of History, SFU.

Joy Parr is writing a book about furniture and electrical appliances in Canada in the forties, fifties and sixties: who designed them, how they were made and sold, how women shopped for them, and what women thought about what they bought. Her earlier books on gender, the family and economic change include "Labouring Children"; "Childhood and "Family in Canadian History"; "Canadian Women on the Move"; and "The Gender of Breadwinners: Women, Men and Change in Two Industrial Towns."
