Library as Place

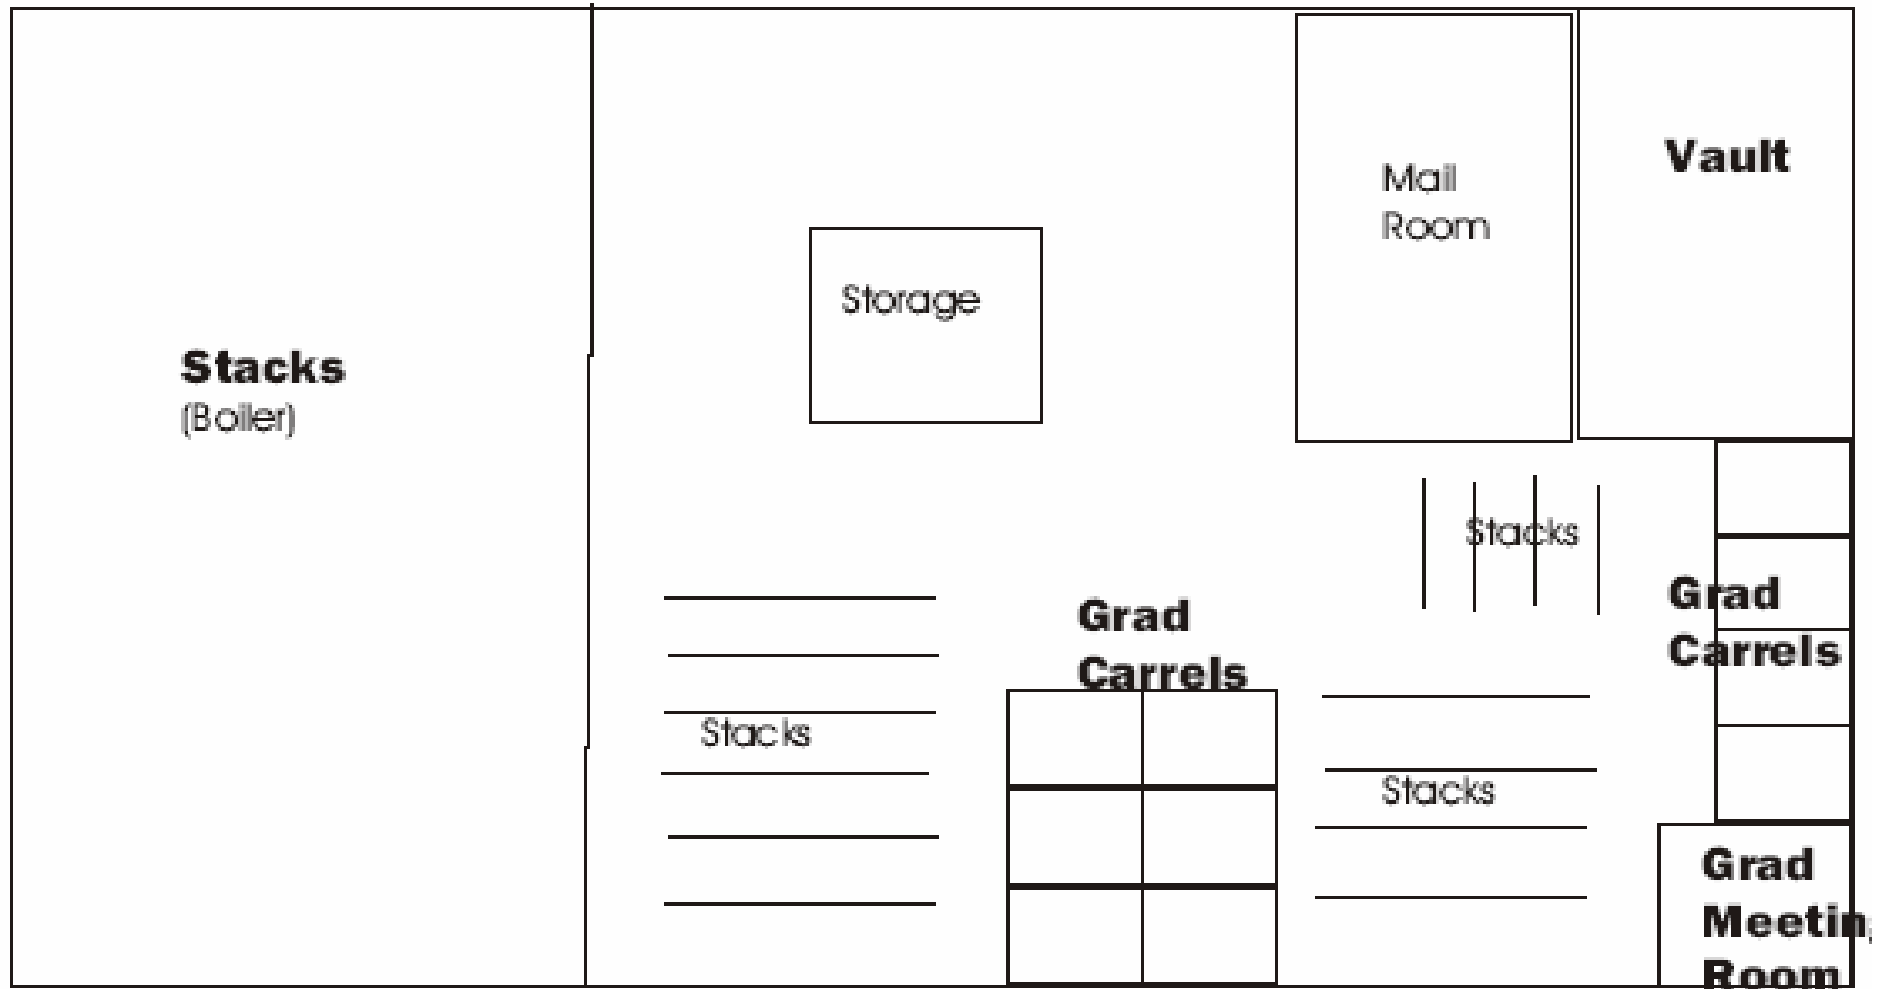

The Simon Fraser University Library... is Alexandria on a space ship ...the mother ship: it's vast, it's warm, it hums ...The holdings seem to go on forever and I sniff through the stacks like a distracted truffle pig... too greedy to focus on any one subject for long.

- Annabel Lyon, Reading Room, Geist 49, p. 71

Library as place

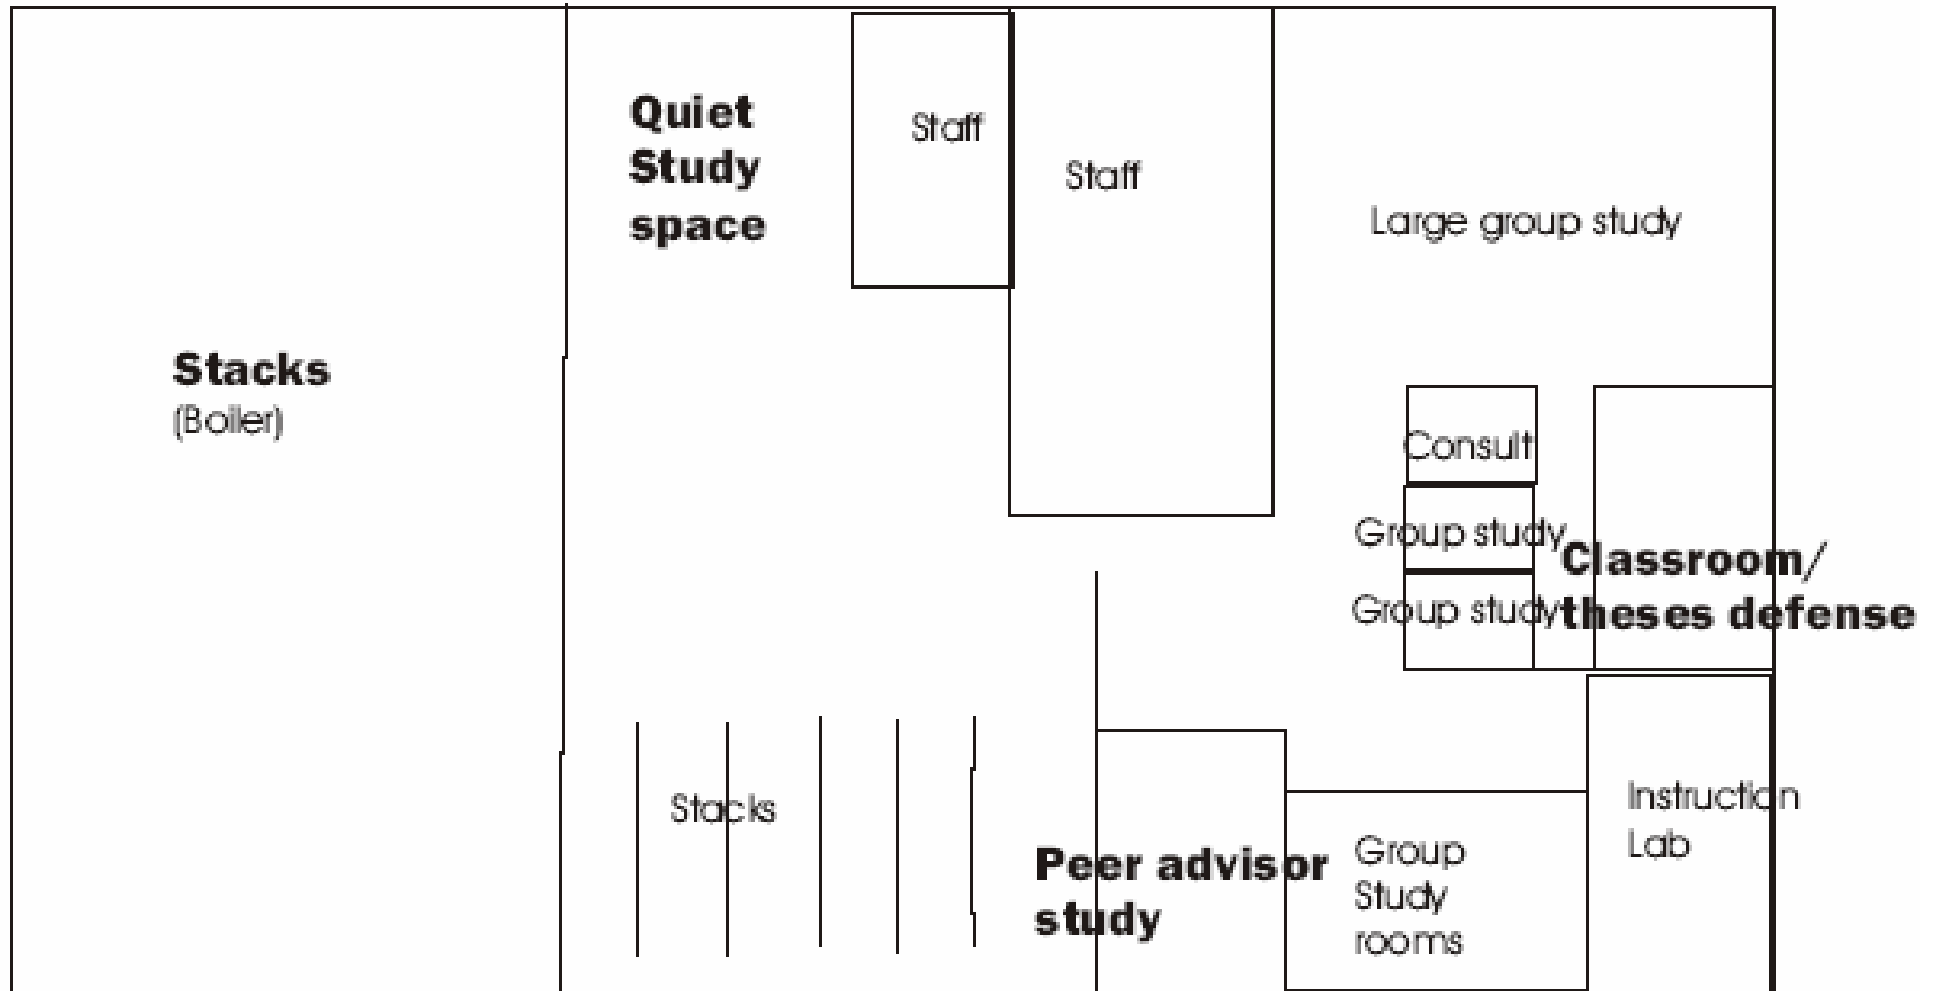

- Changing approaches to education require that the space be repurposed both to meet evolving needs and to continue to provide effective comfortable quiet study and research space.
- Library space must be people centred, intuitively navigable, flexible, and ergonomic for faculty students and staff.

STEVENSON, Michael

SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY BIOGRAPHY:

"Michael Stevenson became Simon Fraser University's eighth President on December 1, 2000. Born in South Africa, Dr. Stevenson left after graduation (BA, University of Witwatersrand) for graduate studies in the United States (PhD, Northwestern). He has taught at universities in the United States, Canada and Nigeria. He taught Political Science at Western Michigan University. He was a Rockefeller Foundation Fellow and Senior Lecturer at the University of Ibadan, Nigeria. He taught Political Science, was Secretary of the Faculty Association, twice Chair of the Department of Political Science, Chair of the University Senate, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, and for seven years Vice-President (Academic Affairs) and Provost at York University in Toronto, Ontario. He is an Associate Senior Fellow of Massey College in Toronto. A Full Professor of Political Science, he has also been active in interdisciplinary research as Associate Director of the Institute for Social Research and as founding director of the York Centre for Health Studies. He has published extensively on post-independence developments in Sub-Saharan Africa, health policy in Canada and Canadian political culture and public opinion. His book, Politics and Ideology in Canada, co-authored with Michael Gwynne, was awarded The Harold Lewis Book Prize for the best book in the Social Sciences

There were five of us children. A bench would be placed for us and on the bench, a bowl and we would stand on our knees around the bowl and eat so quietly, if anyone just starts turning up his nose, grandfather will show his belt. "When you are eating be still. You must be quiet." And we would just glance back at grandfather so that he wouldn't give someone the belt, for the lash would always be hanging on the wall. And he: "Make sure you don't upset the bowl.
