About

Welcome to the BCcampus Portal Library Services Gateway! This site has been designed to provide you, as an online learner, with access to key resources to help you complete your academic research assignments. Through the Library Services Gateway you can:

- email or chat with a library staff member to ask for assistance with your research topic/question
- search online indexes and databases to find information on the topic that is of interest
- search for a specific book, journal article, or newspaper article and find out if it is available to you online fulltext or in print at your home institution's library, and request it via interlibrary loan if it isn't accessible online or in print
- access research, writing, and citing guides to help you with various aspects of your assignments

You can also access a wide range of other services through your home institution's library, or through the institution that is teaching your course if it isn't your home institution. Use the links below to access individual library web sites, catalogues, and subject/research guides.

Search & Request

Start here if you know the title or author of the book or title of the journal you are looking for [e.g. The ethical brain by Michael S. Gazzaniga or Canadian Journal of Criminology]. Once you enter a title and click on continue, the library collection at your home institution will be searched and you'll be presented with the results. The results will include a link to the fulltext online version [if there is one!], a link to the call number for the print version [if there is one!], and an option to search other libraries and request the item [if there isn't any other option!]. The options for requesting an item from another library [this is called interlibrary loan!] will depend on the local policies at your home institution. If you can't request the item online, or have specific questions contact the library at your home institution.

Select an interlibrary loan request form:

Journal Publishing: OJS

Publishing: Open Journals System

- Partnership between UBC's PKP and SFU
- Provides publishing infrastructure
- Manages submissions, reviews, editing, web site
- Reduces the cost of scholarly publishing to ease the move to open access
- Currently over 400 journals around the world

Open Journals System

- Example Journals
- Demonstration Journal
- Synergies

Why Open Source?

- LAMP: Mature, stable software
- Lower costs
- Philosophical compatibility
- “Peer reviewed software”: community input and decision-making
- Contributes to the wider library/scholarly community

- Tutorial list

The screenshot displays the University of Calgary Institutional Repository interface. At the top left is the university logo and name. The main header reads "Institutional Repository". A navigation bar includes links for "DSpace at University of Calgary" and "Council of Prairie and Pacific University Libraries".

On the left sidebar, there is a search box for "Search DSpace" with a "Go" button and an "Advanced Search" link. Below this are navigation links for "Home", "Communities & Collections", "Titles", "Authors", and "By Date". A "Sign on to:" section offers a "Receive email updates" link.

The central content area features the "Shared Viewlet Database" title and "Collection home page" text. A search form is present with a dropdown menu set to "Shared Viewlet Database", a "Search for" input field, and a "Go" button. Below the search form are "Titles", "Authors", and "By Date" browse options. A "Submit to This Collection" button is located at the bottom left of the search area.

On the right side, there is a "Recent Submissions" section listing several items with links, including "CPI.Q Introduction", "Lexis-Nexis Academic Search Canada - Part 3: Finding Business Information", "Lexis-Nexis Academic Search Canada - Part 2: Finding Canadian Legal Information", "Lexis-Nexis Academic Search Canada - Part 1: Introduction", and "Science Direct - Finding full text journals". A "Related Links" section at the bottom right includes a link to "COPPUL Animated Tutorial".

The COPPUL logo, "The Council of Prairie and Pacific University Libraries", is prominently displayed in the center-right of the page. A subscription notification at the bottom center states "You are subscribed to this collection. See Subscriptions" with an "Unsubscribe" button.
